

Work Day Sponsorship

Since 1993, volunteers have helped Habitat for Humanity Quad Cities build 92 homes for area families in need of decent, affordable housing. Businesses, organizations, groups, and churches are invited to make a commitment to volunteerism and a lasting contribution to our community by becoming a Habitat for Humanity Work Day Sponsor.

Work Day Sponsors provide:

- a team of volunteers for a weekday or Saturday
- a contribution to Habitat for Humanity Quad Cities ($1,000-$3,500)

In exchange, they receive:

- “Building Rights” for the day, if desired
- Construction leadership and direction for the day’s work
- On-site training and access to required tools and equipment
- A simple, decent lunch
- Recognition in our online newsletter
- Use of Habitat logo for publicity purposes
- Invitation to annual dinner
- Recognition in annual report
- A teambuilding opportunity unlike any other
- A chance to leave “titles at the office” and make a tangible impact on our community

“We wanted to provide an opportunity for our employees to participate in a ‘meaningful’ project—something they could feel proud about. Not the typical city park makeover, but something that would be lasting. Our Habitat for Humanity experience was great! It allowed our employees to participate in a project outside of the office. They enjoyed the opportunity to help others.”

– Kenny Massey, Modern Woodmen of America

*Home sponsorship opportunities are also available, ranging from $10,000 to a full sponsorship of $100,000. Home construction is funded by donations from businesses, corporations, civic groups, faith communities, individuals, and foundations.
